MUNICIPAL MARKET

THELA THAILA THIKANA

CHANGE SPEAKS IN A LANGUAGE OLD WALLS DO NOT UNDERSTAND

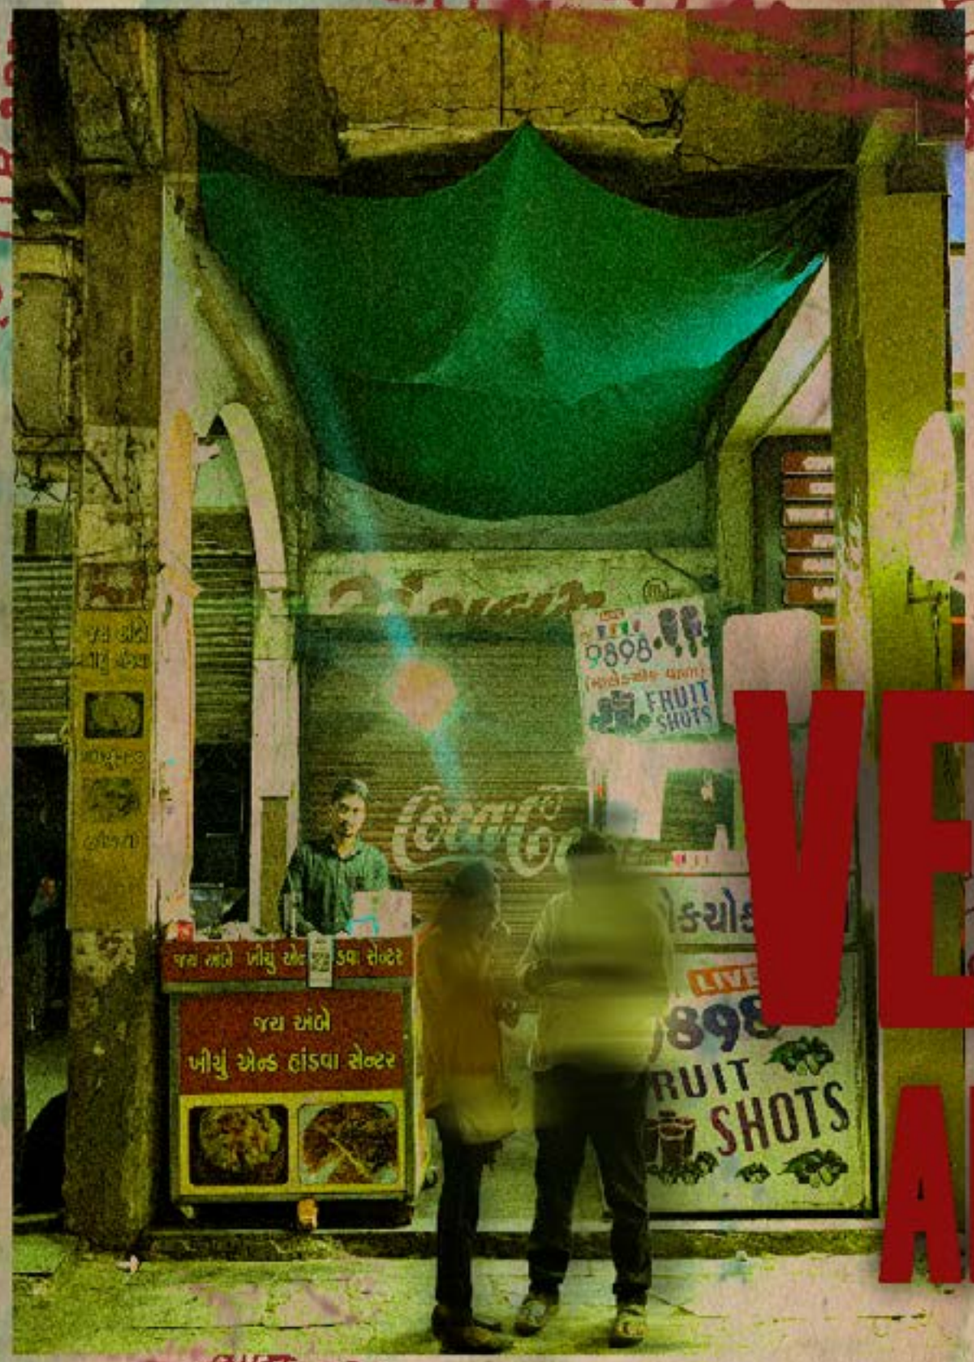

not all change is growth

not all change is growth

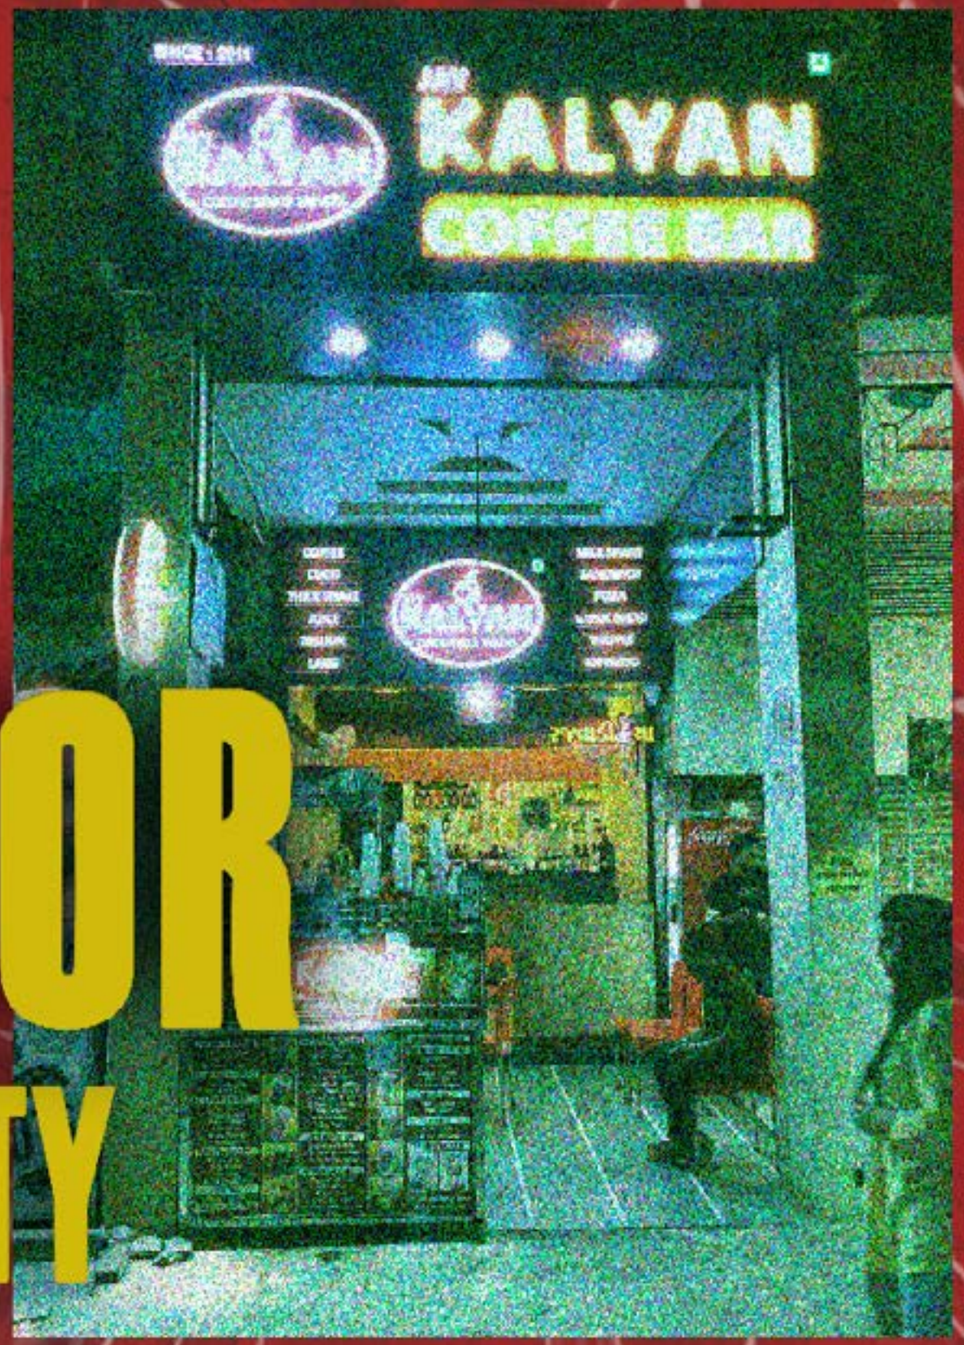

not all change is growth

not all change is growth

TOMORROW'S MARKET TODAY

VENDOR ANXIETY

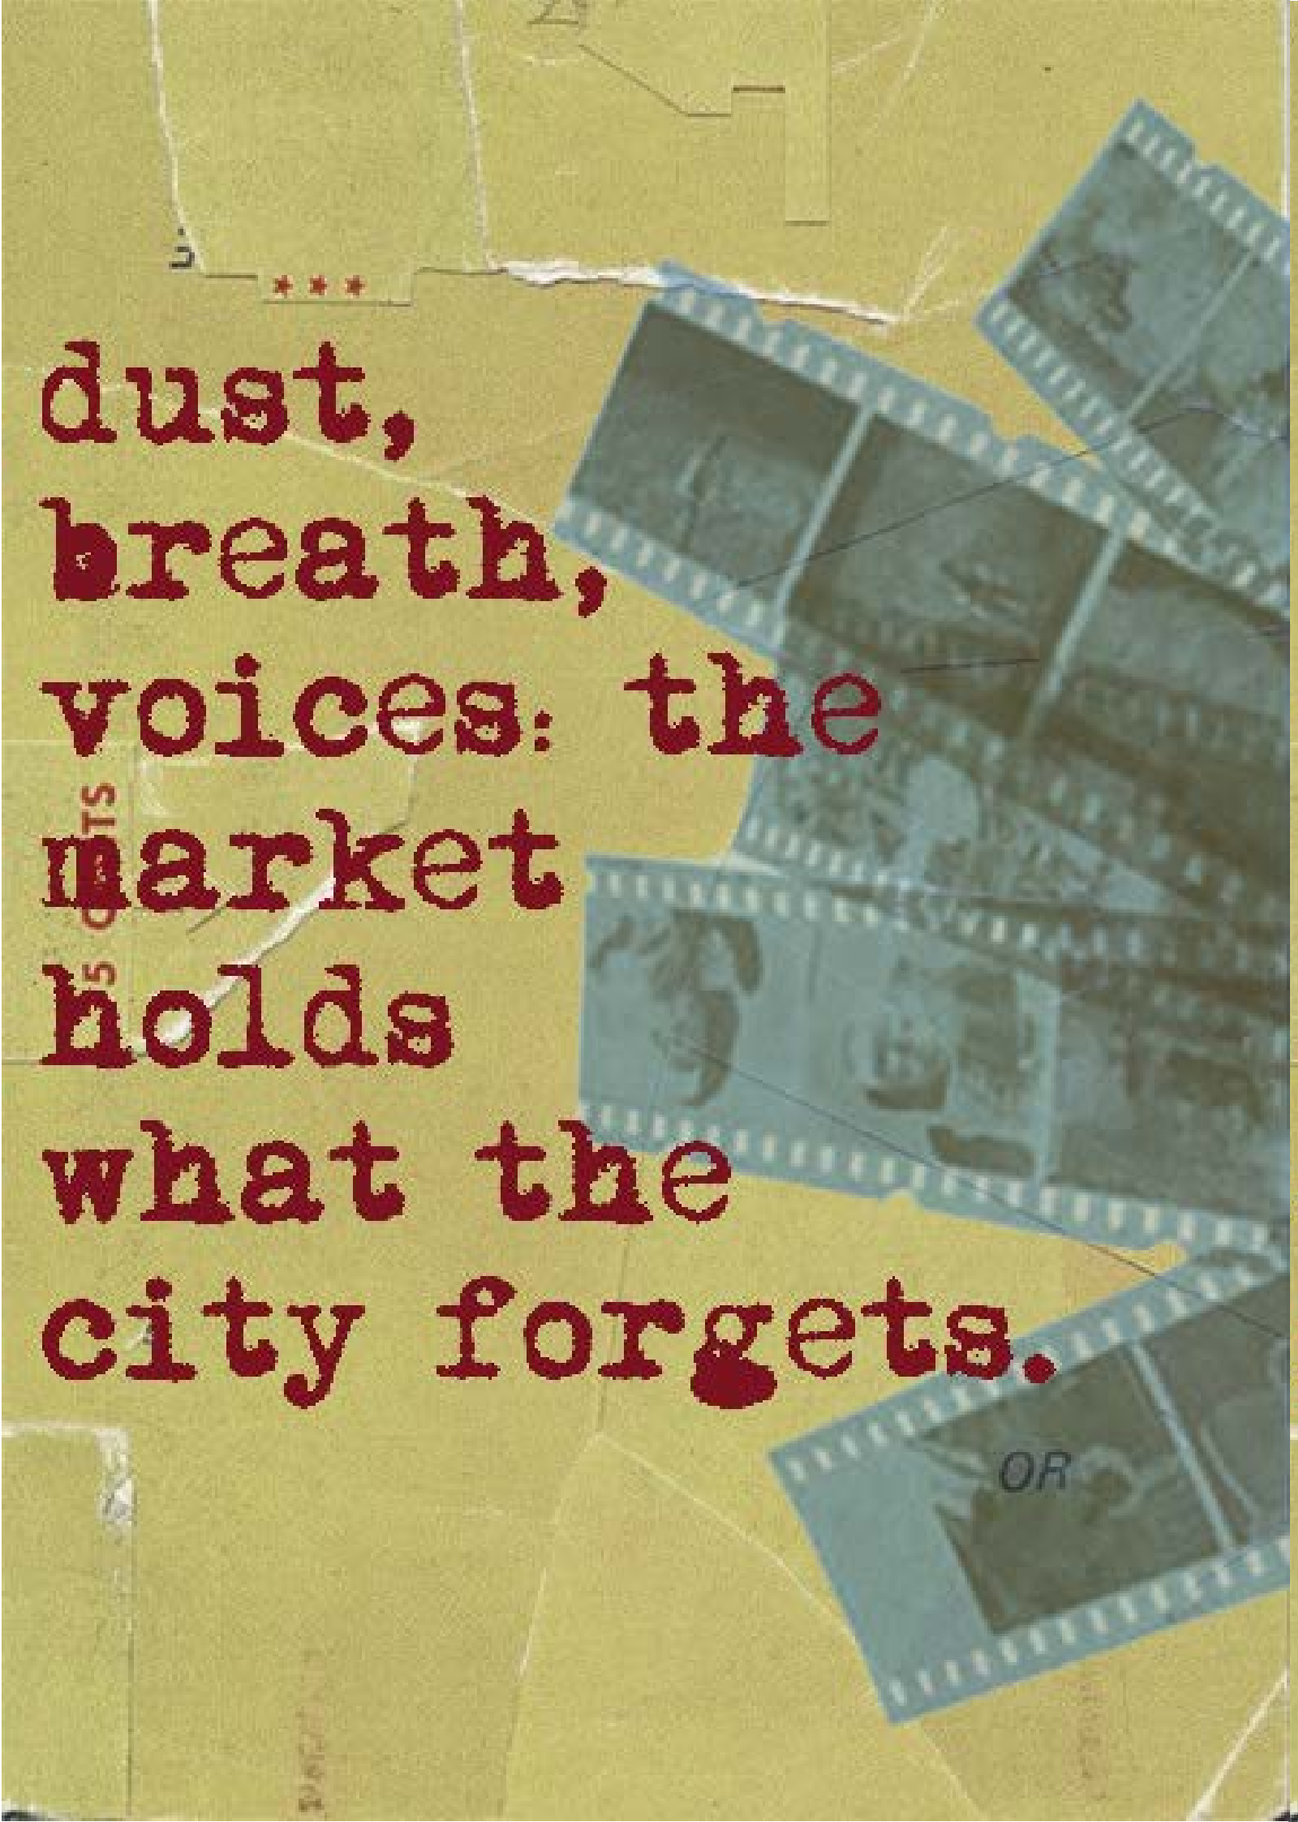

HEAR THE SOUND OF THE MARKET

dust,
breath,
voices: the
market
holds
what the city forgets.

Shapes of the market, stories of power

local vendors

stalls

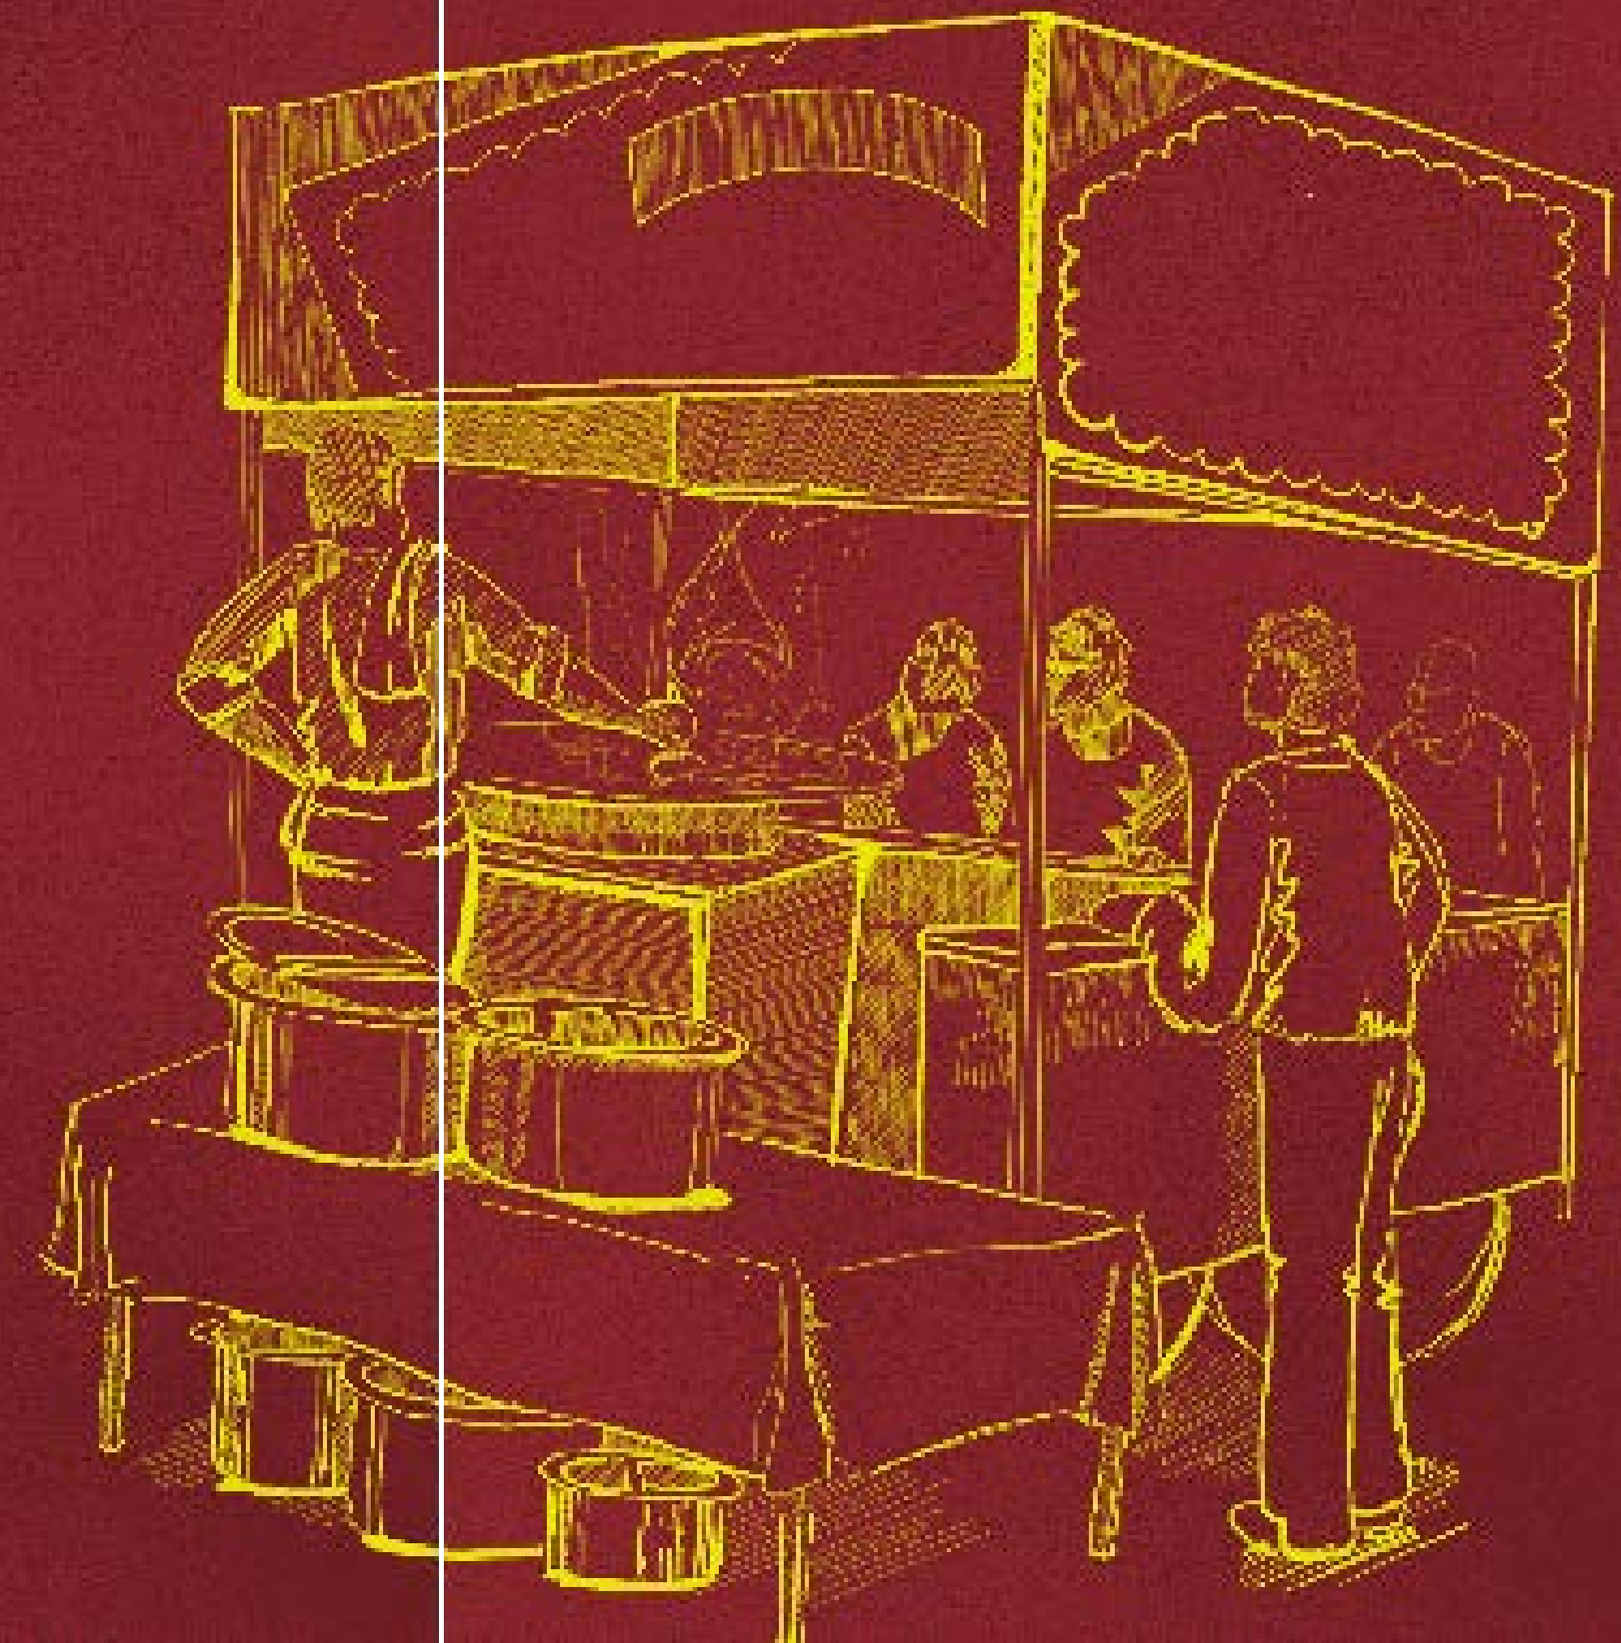

shop owners

AMC

consumers

navigate the market's narrow, tight spaces and park the car correctly within designated spots.

Every corner,
a conversation;
every sound,
a memory.

the market waits

• • •